SPORTS AUTHORITY WITH HEADQUARTERS IN ENGLEWOOD, COLORADO

ENGLEWOOD, CO AND FORT LAUDERDALE, FL (FEBRUARY 20, 2003)--Gart Sports Company (Nasdaq: GRTS) and The Sports Authority, Inc. (NYSE: TSA) today announced that their boards of directors have unanimously approved a definitive agreement providing for a merger of equals to create the nation's preeminent sporting goods retailer. The combined company will be named The Sports Authority, Inc. and headquartered in Englewood, CO, and will apply for listing on the NYSE under the ticker symbol TSA. The transaction is expected to be completed in the third calendar quarter of 2003.

Under the terms of the agreement, Sports Authority stockholders will receive 0.37 shares of Gart Sports common stock for each share of Sports Authority common stock they own. At the closing of the transaction, the new company is expected to have approximately 25 million diluted shares outstanding. Stockholders of Gart Sports and Sports Authority will each own approximately 50 percent of the combined company. The transaction is structured to be tax-free to the stockholders of Sports Authority. Green Equity Investors, L.P., an affiliate of Leonard Green & Partners, L.P., which beneficially owns approximately 25 percent of the outstanding common stock of Gart Sports, has agreed to vote its shares in favor of the transaction.

Following completion of the merger, Martin E. Hanaka, Sports Authority's chairman and chief executive officer, will serve as chairman of the board of the combined company, and John Douglas Morton, president and chief executive officer of Gart Sports, will become vice chairman and chief executive officer of the combined company. Elliott J. Kerbis, president and chief merchandising officer of Sports Authority, will become president and chief merchandising officer of the combined company. Thomas T. Hendrickson, chief financial officer of Gart Sports, will become chief administrative officer and chief financial officer of the combined company. The remainder of the management team of the combined company will be comprised of executives of both Gart Sports and Sports Authority.

The combined company's board of directors will consist of nine directors, four designated by each of the two companies from their current boards, including Messrs. Hanaka and Morton, and one new director, presently unaffiliated with either company.

The combined company expects to realize pre-tax synergies in excess of $20 million in fiscal year 2004, $40 million in fiscal year 2005, and $50 million thereafter. These synergies are expected to result in significant accretion in earnings per share in fiscal year 2004 and beyond.

Mr. Hanaka said, "This combination will better position the company in the highly competitive sporting goods retail sector. Together, we will be the preeminent sporting goods retailer in the U.S., with capabilities and opportunities on a scale much broader than would have been possible for either Gart Sports or Sports Authority on a stand-alone basis. The advantage of size--in terms of having economies of scale, improved purchasing ability, and an expanded distribution network--will allow us to be a stronger competitor and to better serve our customers. With 385 stores in 45 states nationwide, we will be able to provide consumers with a wider selection of premium brand name sporting apparel, footwear and equipment, at competitive prices."

Mr. Hanaka continued, "I am delighted that we will be creating a unified brand with the Sports Authority name, a name that is widely recognized and well respected by consumers across the country."

Mr. Morton said, "This transaction is about serving customers with a more comprehensive product selection, building value for our respective stockholders, and creating greater opportunities for the employees of both companies. I am thrilled that our enhanced marketing reach will enable us to deliver our assortment and value message to more consumers, more often. In addition, this business combination increases our sourcing capabilities, our operational efficiencies and our respective product expertise. It expands our store base nationwide and provides a larger operating platform from which to leverage costs and expenses."

Mr. Morton continued, "We are confident that the integration of our two companies will be greatly facilitated by the fact that Gart Sports and Sports Authority have complementary distribution infrastructures, similar information systems and other merchandising and operating practices in common."

Gart Sports and Sports Authority will establish a transition team comprised of senior management from both companies to ensure a smooth integration process.

The merger is subject to customary closing conditions, including approval by the stockholders of Gart Sports and Sports Authority and Hart-Scott-Rodino approval under the United States antitrust laws.
