EXPLANATORY NOTE

Willis Lease Finance Corporation (the Company) is filing this Amendment No. 1 to its Form 10-Q for the quarter ended June 30, 2005 (the 2005 Second Quarter 10-Q), which was originally filed on August 15, 2005. This amendment addresses the restatement of the consolidated financial statements for the Company's inappropriate application of accounting for derivative related transactions under Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 133, Accounting for Derivative Instruments and Hedging Activities, as amended (SFAS 133).

The Company enters into derivative instruments (swaps and caps) to hedge its interest rate exposure. Certain deficiencies have been identified in the Company's derivative documentation.

The Company had designated its swap and cap derivatives as cash flow hedges of its interest payments on its variable rate debt. It was determined that the documentation related to these derivative instruments was insufficient to meet the documentation criteria under SFAS 133 and as a result that the Company could not apply hedge accounting to the transactions.

A portion of the Company's interest payments were based on commercial paper rates. The Company erroneously tested the effectiveness of the derivative instruments using one-month LIBOR instead of data that would have included both the interest rate risk and credit risk of the issuer of the commercial paper.

Please refer to Note 2 to the accompanying consolidated financial statements for additional information. The Company's consolidated balance sheets, statements of income, statements of shareholders' equity and statements of cash flows were restated to reflect the change in the fair value of derivative contracts in the income statement and not in other comprehensive income where the change was previously recorded. The amortization of upfront premium payments on interest rate caps has been reversed and is no longer a component of interest expense. In addition, the realized gain/loss (i.e. cash settlements) on derivative instruments has been reclassified from interest expense to realized and unrealized (gains) and losses on derivative instruments in the statements of income. The restatements contained within this Form 10-Q/A Amendment No. 1 do not affect the economics of the derivative contract transactions but the change in the accounting presentation significantly increases the volatility in earnings quarter to quarter within a year and between years. The effect on net income, retained earnings and the components of shareholders' equity will differ from period to period.

The accounting restatement for derivative instruments had the following effect on the Company's consolidated statements of income, consolidated balance sheets and consolidated cash flow accounts:

	Increase (Decrease)
	For the three months ended		For the six months ended
	June 30, 2005	June 30, 2004	June 30, 2005	June 30, 2004

Total shareholders' equity

Edgar Filing: WILLIS LEASE FINANCE CORP - Form 10-Q/A

Included in this restatement is a reclassification on the statement of cash flows from amortization of deferred costs to changes in other assets to correct for the erroneous inclusion of amortization of prepaid expenses in this line item.

For the convenience of the reader, this Form 10-Q/A Amendment No. 1 sets forth the complete text of the originally filed 2005 Second Quarter 10-Q rather than just the amended portions thereof.

This Form 10-Q/A Amendment No. 1 should be read in conjunction with the Company's Form 10-K/A Amendment No. 3 for the year ended December 31, 2004 and the Company's Form 10-Q for the quarter ended September 30, 2005, which are being filed concurrently. The following items have been amended as a result of the restatements and reclassifications described above:
