Hollysys Automation Announces Its Proprietary High-Speed Rail ATP Product Certified by European Safety Standard

On Oct 27, 2009, Hollysys Automation Technologies announced that its proprietary high-speed railway on-board control ATP product has been certified to safety integrity level (SIL) 4, according to the CENELEC (European Committee for Electrotechnical Standardization) standards.

This certification, being the first granted to a Chinese local company for the railway ATP product, further extends Hollysys' leadership position in providing safety-critical technology and products for the railway signaling sector.

The Company's press release regarding the foregoing matters is attached hereto as Exhibit 99.1.
