Item 8.01 Other Events.

On December 15, 2014, CytoSorbents Corporation, a Delaware corporation (the "Company"), issued a press release announcing the entry into an exclusive Distribution Agreement ("Distribution Agreement") with Fresenius Medical Care Deutschland GmbH ("Fresenius"), an operating division of Fresenius Medical Care AG & CO KGaA. Although the Distribution Agreement marks a continuation of the Company's long-term distribution strategy, the Company does not deem it material to the Company at this time, but it may become material at some time in the future. In accordance with the disclosure rules of the Securities and Exchange Commission, when such agreement becomes material to the Company, the Company shall appropriately disclose the terms and conditions of such agreement and file such agreement (with confidential treatment requested).

Under the terms of the Distribution Agreement, Fresenius was granted exclusive rights to distribute the Company's CytoSorb product and other blood purification products (the "Products") for critical care medicine and intensive care unit applications in France, Poland, Sweden, Denmark, Norway, and Finland (collectively, the "Territory"). Fresenius's exclusivity is subject to Fresenius achieving certain annual minimum guaranteed orders of the Products. If Fresenius does not achieve the annual minimum guaranteed orders, then the Company may terminate the Distribution Agreement or change the exclusive rights granted to non-exclusive rights. Fresenius is obligated to register the Products with the appropriate governmental agencies for marketing approval in the Territory within six (6) months. Pricing is generally fixed for the term of the Distribution Agreement, but Fresenius is able to achieve volume discounts on pricing. The parties agree to negotiate, in good faith, an increase in the purchase price of the Products in the event the average selling price to customers increases or, on the other hand, if the costs of production for the Products decreases, a reduction in the purchase price.

The Distribution Agreement expires upon the third anniversary of the first Product registration in the Territory, but, in any event, no later than June 15, 2018, and is subject to renewal or renegotiation with mutual agreement at that time. During the term of the Distribution Agreement and for a period of one (1) year afterwards, Fresenius has agreed not to compete with the Company regarding the production or distribution of a competitive product in the Territory.

A copy of the press release announcing the entry into the Distribution Agreement is attached hereto as Exhibit 99.1.
