BASF Third-Quarter Results 2003

LUDWIGSHAFEN, Germany--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Nov. 13, 2003--

Difficult third quarter - BASF (NYSE: BF; FWB: BAS; LSE: BFA)
proceeds with its restructuring measures

- Sales increase slightly despite negative currency effects
- EBIT before special items below the previous year's good level
- Significant improvement in Agricultural Products & Nutrition
- Oil & Gas makes largest contribution to income
- Outlook for full-year 2003: EBIT before special items below

previous year's level

In a business environment characterized by high raw material prices, margin pressure and a weak U.S. dollar, BASF Aktiengesellschaft increased its sales in the third quarter of 2003 by 2.1 percent to EUR7.7 billion compared with the same period in 2002. Excluding negative currency translation effects, sales increased by 7.6 percent. Price increases contributed 2.1 percent to sales, but prices still remain at an unsatisfactory level. Sales volumes were up 4.5 percent.

"The latest figures for our ongoing business give grounds for hope that we have now reached the bottom of the downturn. However, there has still not yet been a real breakthrough. 2003 remains a difficult year, as demonstrated by the weak third quarter," said Dr. Jurgen Hambrecht, Chairman of the Board of Executive Directors of BASF Aktiengesellschaft, at a press conference to present BASF's third-quarter results.

Third-quarter income from operations (EBIT) before special items fell 31.8 percent to EUR403 million compared with 2002. This unsatisfactory operating result is due mainly to continuing pressure on margins in the Chemicals, Plastics and Performance Products segments. High oil prices kept purchasing prices for naphtha and natural gas high. BASF's chemicals operations remain burdened by overcapacities, especially in the United States and in Europe. Prices could therefore not be increased to the extent necessary.

EBIT after special items declined 20 percent to EUR374 million. Special charges related mainly to restructuring measures in the NAFTA region and integration costs for the crop protection business acquired by BASF.

Net income in the third quarter fell 51 percent to EUR120 million. In the third quarter of 2002, the financial result contained tax-free gains from the sale of marketable securities. The absence of these tax-free gains in 2003 led to a significant increase in the tax rate compared with the previous year.

Third-quarter earnings per share were EUR0.21 compared with EUR0.43 in 2002.

In the first nine months of 2003, BASF posted cumulative sales of EUR24.8 billion - slightly more than in the same period in 2002. Excluding currency effects, sales would have amounted to EUR26.7 billion, 10.2 percent more than in 2002. At EUR2.2 billion, EBIT before special items in the first nine months was 2.3 percent lower than in 2002.

Cash provided by operating activities is a good indicator of BASF's financial strength: At just over EUR3.5 billion, the figure for the first three quarters was already significantly higher than the full-year value for 2002 of EUR2.3 billion.

Outlook: Full-year EBIT before special items lower than in 2002

"In the summer, it was already clear that major efforts would be needed to match the previous year's earnings level. But our own efforts are not enough if there is not a sustainable improvement in the economic climate. We saw no signs of such an improvement in the third quarter," said Hambrecht. "Although there are currently initial signs of an economic recovery, high raw material costs, unsatisfactory margins in some areas of our chemicals businesses and the weak U.S. dollar will continue to put pressure on our business in the fourth quarter," he continued. Based on a slight increase in sales, BASF expects EBIT before special items to be lower than in the previous year in both the fourth quarter and for the full year.

Hambrecht also remains realistic when it comes to assessing future economic developments: "Even though more and more indicators are positive and pointing upward, we have to rely on facts rather than moods." He therefore stated that it is too soon to be able to predict when an economic recovery will set in, how strong it will be and how long it will last.

BASF is therefore focusing on its extensive Group-wide programs and initiatives to optimize its portfolio, reduce costs and restructure its organization. "The success of such measures lies primarily in our own hands," said Hambrecht.

Share buy-back program to be implemented as planned in 2003

In the first nine months of 2003, BASF shares have outperformed the EURO STOXX 50 index and have been included in the Dow Jones Sustainability Index for the third year in succession. BASF aims to implement its share buy-back program as planned in 2003, buying back shares for a total of EUR500 million. The company intends to continue its share buy-back program in 2004.

Performance of the segments in the third quarter of 2003

Agricultural Products & Nutrition and Oil & Gas posted significant increases in sales compared with the strong third quarter of 2002. Chemicals and Plastics maintained sales at the level of the previous year despite the weak dollar. Sales were slightly down in Performance Products.

The situation is different with regard to EBIT before special items. All segments with the exception of Agricultural Products & Nutrition reported lower income compared with the good third quarter of 2002. This segment improved by more than 36 percent thanks to higher sales volumes as well as extensive cost-reduction measures. As is typical in this sector, third-quarter income was negative due to the seasonal nature of the business.

At EUR271 million, the largest contribution to income came from the Oil & Gas segment. Sales increased 14.6 percent mainly due to higher volumes in the natural gas trading business. Significantly higher volumes of oil and gas were produced in the exploration and production activities. A higher oil price compared with the same period in 2002 led to an increase in sales, which, however, was partially offset by the weaker U.S. dollar.

Income in the Chemicals segment was negatively impacted by persistently high raw material costs coupled with competitive pressure. Startup costs following conversion of part of the chlorine production facilities at the Ludwigshafen site to a modern membrane process reduced earnings, as did scheduled maintenance of key production plants.

A fall in the price of polymers in Europe and the NAFTA region reduced income in the Plastics segment. In addition, fiber intermediates posted a loss. In September, however, the company was able to implement initial price increases for important polymers. The integration of the business acquired from Honeywell is proceeding as planned and initial cost synergies have been realized.

Third-quarter income in the Performance Products segment also failed to achieve the strong previous year's level. The weak dollar reduced income in the Performance Chemicals and Coatings divisions. The Functional Polymers division improved margins and income despite a difficult market situation.

BASF is the world's leading chemical company, offering its customers a range of high-performance products, including chemicals, plastics, performance products, agricultural products, fine chemicals as well as crude oil and natural gas. Its distinctive approach to integration, known in German as "Verbund," is its strength. It enables BASF to achieve cost leadership and gives the company a competitive advantage. BASF conducts its business in accordance with the principles of sustainable development. In 2002, BASF had sales of about EUR32 billion (circa $34 billion) and over 89,000 employees worldwide. BASF shares are traded on the stock exchanges in Frankfurt (BAS), London (BFA), New York (BF), Paris (BA) and Zurich (BAS). ### BASF Group Business Review and Analysis

- Slight increase in sales despite negative currency effects
- EBIT before special items below the previous year's good level
- Outlook for full-year 2003: EBIT before special items below previous year's level

Edgar Filing: BASF AKTIENGESELLSCHAFT - Form 6-K

Sales: In the third quarter, sales increased by 2.1 % compared with the same quarter of the previous year, in particular as a result of higher volumes. Excluding currency effects, sales increased by 7.6 %. It was possible to increase prices only slightly, and they remain unsatisfactory, especially in our chemicals businesses.

Prices	2.1	3.1

Acquisitions/divestitures	1.0	1.0
Total	2.1	2.6

Earnings: At euro 403 million, income from operations before special items was 32 % lower than in the third quarter of 2002.

The Oil & Gas segment made the largest contribution to income. In the Agricultural Products & Nutrition segment, income improved significantly, mainly as a result of cost-reduction measures and strong sales of crop protection products in South America.

The Chemicals, Plastics and Performance Products segments suffered from high raw material prices, which could not be passed on to our customers due to continuing oversupply in the market.

Restructuring measures in the NAFTA region and integration costs for the fipronil crop protection business resulted in special charges.

Income from operations after special items declined 20 % to euro 374 million. The financial result fell to euro (108) million and contains special charges related to restructuring measures at non-consolidated companies, in particular to the closure of production sites for printing inks in South America. In 2002, the financial result contained tax-free gains from the sale of marketable securities.

In the third-quarter of 2003, income before taxes and minority interests fell by 42 % to euro 266 million compared with the previous year.

The tax rate rose significantly due to the absence of tax-free gains in the financial result. In the third quarter, income taxes for oil production that are non-compensable with German taxes amounted to euro 116 million and were below the previous year's value of euro 123 million.

Net income in the third quarter fell 51 % to euro 120 million. Earnings per share were euro 0.21 compared with euro 0.43 in 2002.

our business in the fourth quarter. Based on a slight increase in sales, we expect EBIT before special items to be lower than in the previous year in both the fourth quarter and for the full year. We will therefore continue to rigorously implement our measures to increase efficiency and reduce costs.

Chemicals

- Sales up slightly on 2002 due to higher volumes
- Margin pressure and startup costs for investment projects in Asia burden income
- Inorganics portfolio strengthened by acquisition

Third-quarter sales increased slightly (volumes 6.4 %, prices/currency - 5.7%).

Income from operations before special items was lower than in 2002 in all three divisions, with the Inorganics division showing the most stable performance.

In the Inorganics division, strong demand for glues and impregnating resins as well as catalysts had a positive effect on sales and income. However, the conversion of part of the chlorine production facilities at the Ludwigshafen site to a modern membrane process had a negative impact on income. We strengthened our inorganic specialties business through the acquisition of the Callery Chemical Division of the U.S. Mine Safety Appliances Company in September 2003.

In the Petrochemicals division, sales improved slightly thanks to higher volumes. Income, however, fell noticeably as a result of the decline in olefin prices as well as scheduled maintenance of important production plants.

In the Intermediates division, sales of diols and organic acids declined particularly. Sales of amines, however, increased. Income was negatively impacted by declining margins as a result of persistent competitive pressure as well as startup costs for investment projects in Asia.

Plastics

- Sales remain steady in a difficult market due to higher volumes
- Very weak margins for fiber intermediates reduce income
- New TDI plant in South Korea already operating at high capacity

Sales in the third quarter almost attained the previous year's level (volumes 8.0 %, prices/currency - 7.8 %).

Income from operations before special items was significantly lower than in 2002, mainly due to the loss posted by fiber intermediates.

In the Styrenics division, sales and income declined despite slightly higher volumes. In particular, this decline was due to a fall in the price of polymers in Europe and the NAFTA region. Initial price increases were implemented in September.

Sales in the Performance Polymers division declined due to the weak U.S. dollar and a low price level. Volumes of engineering plastics increased despite a difficult market environment.

The integration of Honeywell's engineering plastics business is proceeding as planned and initial cost synergies have been realized. Income declined noticeably, however, as a result of the severe decline in margins for intermediates for the textile and fibers industry.

Sales and income in the Polyurethanes division increased. In particular, volumes increased significantly in Europe and Asia. Our new Korean plant for TDI - a key component in the production of polyurethanes - started operations in the third quarter and capacity utilization is already high.

Performance Products

- Sales decline due to currency effects
- Income down on previous year's good level
- Profitability of Functional Polymers increases

Third-quarter sales declined (volumes - 1.1 %, prices/currency - 4.0 %).

Income from operations before special items exceeded the previous year's level only in the Functional Polymers division.

Sales in the Performance Chemicals division were impaired by the weak U.S. dollar as well as pronounced seasonally lower demand in Europe. Sales of performance chemicals for coatings, plastics and specialties were affected to a lesser extent than products for the textile and leather industry. Income was reduced due to a lower level of capacity utilization.

In the Coatings division, lower sales were due entirely to the decline of the U.S. dollar and the Brazilian real. Third quarter income did not reach the same high level as in 2002. Our system supplier concept for the automobile industry has proven its worth and has been extended to other production sites of our customers.

Sales in the Functional Polymers division declined as a result of sluggish demand, in particular in the NAFTA region. In Asia, however, sales developed very positively. Prices and margins improved despite a difficult economic environment. Income therefore exceeded the previous year's level.

Sales in the Agricultural Products & Nutrition segment increased significantly in the third quarter (volumes 7.1 %, prices/currency 1.7 %).

Agricultural Products: In the third quarter, sales improved considerably compared with the same period in 2002. This was due mainly to good sales at the start of the growing season in South America, an upturn in demand for products used in forestry and the fipronil business. Income was negative due to the seasonal nature of the business but, despite negative currency effects, improved significantly as a result of higher volumes and the cost-reduction measures that have been implemented.

Fine Chemicals: Volumes increased in the third quarter, but sales declined because of currency effects. Sales of lysine, carotenoids and vitamin C as well as cosmetic raw materials, however, climbed. The decline in income was primarily the result of the currency effects already mentioned. We have further reduced inventories as planned. In the future, we will conduct our business with feed enzymes such as phytase on the basis of our own production, thus extending our value-adding chain in this business.

Oil & Gas

- Significant increase in sales, in particular in natural gas trading
- Largest contribution to income of the BASF Group
- Successful entry into the Belgian gas market

Sales in the Oil & Gas segment increased significantly in the third quarter (volumes 8.2 %, prices/currency 3.6 %).

The increase in sales was due mainly to higher volumes in our natural gas trading business. Successful entry into the Belgian gas market was secured through supply contracts that will ensure a 6 % share of the market by 2005. In our exploration and production activities, we produced significantly higher volumes of oil and gas. A higher oil price compared with the same period in 2002 led to an increase in sales, which was, however, partially offset by the weaker U.S. dollar.

Income from operations remained at a high level. The decline in income was due primarily to currency effects in our exploration and production activities.

In July 2003, BASF founded a joint venture with its Russian partner Gazprom to develop the Achimov formation in the Urengoi gas field in western Siberia, thus further extending this cooperation. Furthermore, an agreement was signed with the Romanian company Romgaz S.A. to produce natural gas in central Romania.

Regions

- Europe weaker, NAFTA unsatisfactory
- Further improvement in South America
- Income in Asia more than doubled

In the third quarter, sales by location of company in Europe increased 3.2 %. In particular, sales were higher in the Agricultural Products & Nutrition and Oil & Gas segments. Income from operations before special items fell by euro 221 million to euro 288 million.

In the NAFTA region, sales by location of company declined by 9.8 % in the third quarter as a result of the weaker U.S. dollar. In dollar terms, sales increased 3 %, in particular in the Chemicals and Agricultural Products & Nutrition segments. Income from operations before special items declined to euro (22) million primarily due to increased raw material costs. Our further intensified program of restructuring and cost-reduction measures in the NAFTA region is being rigorously implemented.

In South America, third-quarter sales by location of company climbed 27 %, in particular due to higher sales of crop protection products. Income from operations before special items rose to euro 77 million.

Third-quarter sales by location of company in the Asia, Pacific Area, Africa region increased 9.9 %; excluding currency effects, sales increased by 23 %. Income from operations before special items more than doubled to euro 60 million.

Edgar Filing: BASF AKTIENGESELLSCHAFT - Form 6-K

At euro 3,555 million, cash provided by operating activities in the first three quarters was already significantly higher than the full-year amount for 2002 of euro 2,313 million. Substantial cash was released as a result of lower net current assets.

Cash used in investing activities totaled euro 3,137 million. Expenditures for acquisitions were primarily related to the fipronil crop protection business and the purchase of Honeywell's engineering plastics business. At euro 1,452 million, additions to tangible and intangible fixed assets declined by 5.9 % and were lower than depreciation and amortization.

Cash provided by financing activities was euro 211 million. In the first nine months of 2003, we bought back 11.3 million shares for euro 400 million or an average of euro 35.57 per share. For the full year, a total of euro 500 million has been earmarked for share buybacks.

Liquid funds increased to euro 1,254 million and financial indebtedness to euro 5,097 million, resulting in net debt of euro 3,843 million.

Interim Financial Statements of BASF Group

(abridged version)

The interim financial statements have not been audited. The valuation methods used in the Consolidated Financial Statements for 2002 remained unchanged. Changes in the scope of consolidation were negligible. The acquisition of crop protection products from Bayer on March 21, 2003 is taken into account from this date onward. The sale of the fibers business to Honeywell and the simultaneous acquisition of their engineering plastics business is taken into account as of the beginning of May 2003.
