On another topic, we remain committed to pursuing the acquisition of Hollywood Entertainment Corporation. The acquisition makes sense for our customers and shareholders, and we continue to press forward. We think our acquisition of Hollywood would enable us to bring our expanded array of offerings to more customers and compete more effectively.

One way or another, we would like to have a decision made on the merits of the transaction as quickly as possible, either in court or by the FTC, and we are driving towards that goal. As a matter of fact, late yesterday afternoon we reached an agreement with the FTC to extend the waiting period until March 21st to allow their economists to review the information we gave them. And we believe we will have an answer by that date.
