Non-GAAP Financial Measures

Adjusted EPS :

we believe it will be necessary to adjust diluted earnings per share to exclude the effects of the following items: (1) the amortization of purchased intangible assets; (2) restructuring and asset impairment charges; and (3) acquisition related costs. Management believes that excluding the effects of these items will enable investors to better understand and analyze the impact of this transaction as well as results for a particular period as compared to prior periods. Management also expects to use this non-GAAP financial measure in its own evaluation of Xerox's performance, particularly when comparing performance to prior periods.

Free Cash Flow Adjusted Free Cash Flow': To better understand the trends in our business, we believe that it is helpful to adjust cash flows from operations to exclude amounts for capital expenditures including internal use software and certain additions to intangible assets. Management believes this measure provides investors an additional perspective on cash flows from operations in excess of amounts required for reinvestments. Free Cash Flow provides a measure of our ability to fund acquisition, repay debt, pay dividends and repurchase shares. Additionally, we believe that it is helpful to adjust Free Cash Flow to exclude net payments made for the securities-related litigation matter. Management believes that excluding the effects of these payments helps investors better understand and analyze the current periods' results given the nature and size of the payments and their relation to prior period events. A reconciliation of these non-GAAP financial measures and the most directly comparable measures calculated and presented in accordance with GAAP are set forth on slides 18, 19 and 20.

Adjusted Operating Margin :

Operating Margins to exclude restructuring and asset impairment charges, other expenses and a 2008 equipment write off. For ACS, we excluded the 2006 gain recognized on the sale of a business and the 2007 software impairment charge. Management believes that excluding the effects of these items helps investors better understand and analyze the results and provides a better measure of comparability given the discrete nature of these items to their respective periods. A reconciliation of these non-GAAP financial measures and the most directly comparable measures calculated and presented in accordance with GAAP are set forth on slides 21 and 22.

Management believes that these non-GAAP financial measures provide an additional means of analyzing the current periods' results against the corresponding prior periods' results. However, these non-GAAP financial measures should be viewed in addition to, and not as a substitute for, Xerox's reported results prepared in accordance with GAAP.

To better understand the trends in our business and the impact of this transaction post-acquisition,

To better understand the trends in Xerox's business, we believe that it is helpful to adjust
