Joint press release by Petronas, Sasol, Tshwarisano LFB Investment (Pty) Limited and Worldwide African Investment Holdings

Petronas, Sasol, Tshwarisano LFB Investment and Worldwide (the parties) have jointly considered the recent ruling of the Competition Tribunal prohibiting the proposed merger of Sasol's liquid fuels business with Engen.

The parties are disappointed with the ruling of the Competition Tribunal. However, after considering the adverse impact on their businesses of a further protracted legal process through the appeal procedure, and notwithstanding the merits of the proposed merger, the parties have jointly decided not to appeal against the ruling of the Competition Tribunal.

Sasol responds to joint announcement not to appeal

Sasol refers its shareholders to the joint announcement today by Petronas, Sasol, Tshwarisano LFB Investment (Pty) Limited and Worldwide African Investment Holdings.

Although disappointed with the outcome and much of the commentary in the judgement published by the Competition Tribunal, Sasol respects the process and decision made relating to the proposed merger of its liquid fuels business with Engen.

The business case and merits of this merger remain compelling in Sasol's view. It is considered unfortunate that an opportunity to create a national fuel champion, in much the same way as other countries have their own (eg BP of the United Kingdom, Total of France, etc) in markets that are significantly larger than South Africa's, has been lost.

Pat Davies, Sasol CE, said: "The possibility of a protracted legal process going forward through an appeal procedure was an important factor in Sasol reaching the decision, together with our partners, not to appeal against the Competition Tribunal ruling. The competition law evaluation process applying to the proposed merger began in November 2004 and thus has already lasted about sixteen months. This lengthy period has caused increasing uncertainty among the employees of the merging parties. Sasol considers extending this uncertainty to be untenable and potentially damaging to the interest of its liquid fuels business and its stakeholders."

Trevor Munday, Sasol Deputy CE, said: "In reaching this joint decision, which Sasol believes is in the interests of all stakeholders, Sasol wishes to thank and pay tribute to Petronas of Malaysia, and notably its President Tan Sri Dato Mohd Hassan Marican and senior members of Petronas management, for the transparent, friendly and business-like manner in which the negotiations of the proposed merger were held. Petronas is both a strong supporter of South Africa and one of the country's largest foreign investors and it has been a privilege for Sasol to have been closely associated with them through this process."

Pat Davies added: "Sasol also wishes to thank the promoters of its empowerment partner, Tshwarisano Investment (Pty) Limited, for their constructive engagement in the proposed merger process. Sasol is pleased that the relationship with Tshwarisano will continue in the future through its ownership position in Sasol's liquid fuels business."
