Item 1.04 Mine Safety - Reporting of Shutdowns and Patterns of Violations.

On February 26, 2013, Peabody Western Coal Company, a subsidiary of Peabody Energy Corporation, was issued an imminent danger order under section 107(a) of the Federal Mine Safety and Health Act of 1977. The mine involved was the Kayenta Mine located in Arizona. On that date, an inspector from the Mine Safety and Health Administration alleged that an unsafe condition existed on the spoil (southeast) side of the N-9 pit that was not corrected prior to employees accessing the pit to load drilled blast holes. The employees were withdrawn from the base of the spoil wall and management has implemented an abatement plan.
