Item 8.01 Other Events.

On May 5, 2011, Westinghouse Solar, Inc. (the “Company”) filed a motion to lift the stay in the United States District Court Northern District of California San Francisco Division against Zep Solar, Inc. and several other defendants for the direct and contributory infringement of the Company’s U.S. Patent No. 7,406,800 (“Andalay Patent No. '800”). The stay was originally granted on April 14, 2010, pending resolution of re-examination proceedings in the United States Patent and Trademark Office (“USPTO”).

On April 4, 2011, the Company received notice that the USPTO issued a Notice of Intent to Issue a Reexamination Certificate in the proceeding brought by Zep Solar, Inc. to re-examine Andalay Patent No. '800. Zep Solar, Inc. had initiated this re-examination proceeding as a response to the Company’s complaint brought in the United States District Court Northern District of California San Francisco Division against Zep Solar, Inc. and several other defendants for the direct and contributory infringement of Andalay Patent No. '800. The USPTO's notice in the re-examination proceeding indicates that those proceedings are nearing completion, and means that the Company’s Andalay Patent No. '800 has survived the reexamination process, albeit with modifications due to some claims having been canceled and other claims of the patent remaining intact. The remaining claims covered by Andalay Patent No. '800 include claims being asserted in the Zep litigation. The Company believes that the remaining claims covered by Andalay Patent No. '800 offer continuing protection for the Company’s technology. The re-examination proceedings are expected to be completed within the next few weeks, with the issuance of the Re-examination Certificate by the USPTO. The Company intends to continue to aggressively pursue this case.
