research and development, with the title of Chief Technology Officer.

Robert L. Saxe, Chairman of Research Frontiers commented: "Joe Harary has been a leading figure in creating the emerging SPD industry and establishing SPD-Smart technology as the light-control solution of choice at many of the world's largest glass companies. Joe has worked closely and developed strong relationships with key executives at our licensees and at major OEMs around the world. Now, with important projects in various industries in the pipeline as a result of this, Joe's new position as CEO will better enable him to coordinate activities around the world."

"SPD-Smart light-control technology has reached its current state of advanced performance through the perseverance, vision, guidance and skill of Bob Saxe and his talented team of scientists, as well as the focused commercial efforts of teams of technical, production and marketing people at our licensees and their customers," noted Joseph M. Harary. "Recent developments have made it increasingly clear that the world needs SPD-Smart light-control technology and the many benefits it offers, including energy efficiency and expanded design possibilities in the architecture, automotive, aircraft and marine industries. We, our licensees, and their customers have a very exciting future ahead of us and I look forward to leading our collective efforts to demonstrate how intelligent glass can really be."

Joe Harary became Vice President and General Counsel to Research Frontiers in April 1992, was promoted to the position of Executive Vice President in December 1999, and became its President and Chief Operating Officer in February 2002. He has been a director of the Company since February 1993. Joe Harary graduated Summa Cum Laude from Columbia College in 1983 with an A.B. degree in economics, and received a Juris Doctor degree from Columbia Law School in 1986. Prior to joining Research Frontiers in 1992, Mr. Harary was a corporate attorney whose practice at several prominent New York law firms emphasized mergers and acquisitions, technology licensing, securities law, and intellectual property law. Prior to attending law school, Mr. Harary was an economist with the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.
