Dreyfus Strategic Municipal Bond Fund, Inc.

A LETTER FROM THE CEO OF DREYFUS

Dear Shareholder:

We are pleased to present this semiannual report for Dreyfus Strategic Municipal Bond Fund, Inc., covering the six-month period from December 1, 2016 through May 31, 2017. For information about how the fund performed during the reporting period, as well as general market perspectives, we provide a Discussion of Fund Performance on the pages that follow.

Stocks advanced solidly, but higher-quality bonds produced more mildly positive returns over the reporting period amid heightened market volatility stemming from various economic and political developments. Equity markets reached a series of new highs in the wake of the November 2016 election's unexpected outcome as investors revised their expectations for U.S. fiscal, regulatory, and tax policies, and the rally continued in December. Generally strong economic data and better-than-expected corporate earnings continued to support stock prices over the first five months of 2017. In the bond market, yields of U.S. government securities moved higher and prices fell early in the reporting period in anticipation of higher short-term U.S. interest rates and more stimulative fiscal policies, but they recouped previous losses when political uncertainty caused some of those expectations to moderate. In contrast, lower rated corporate-backed bonds advanced steadily in a more business-friendly market environment.

Some asset classes and industry groups seem likely to benefit from a changing economic and geopolitical landscape, while others probably will face challenges as conditions evolve. Consequently, selectivity may be key to investment success in the months ahead. As always, we encourage you to discuss the implications of our observations with your financial advisor.

Thank you for your continued confidence and support.

Sincerely,

Mark D. Santero Chief Executive Officer The Dreyfus Corporation June 15, 2017

DISCUSSION OF FUND PERFORMANCE

For the period from December 1, 2016 through May 31, 2017, as provided by Daniel Rabasco and Jeffrey Burger, Portfolio Managers

Market and Fund Performance Overview

For the six-month period ended May 31, 2017, Dreyfus Strategic Municipal Bond Fund achieved a total return of 6.69% on a net-asset-value basis.¹ Over the same period, the fund provided aggregate income dividends of $0.249 per share, which reflects an annualized distribution rate of 5.89%.²

Municipal bonds fared well over the reporting period when long-term interest rates moderated and supply-and-demand dynamics became more balanced. In this environment, the fund benefited from its focus on higher-yielding, longer-term securities.

The Fund's Investment Approach

The fund seeks to maximize current income exempt from federal income tax to the extent believed by Dreyfus to be consistent with the preservation of capital. In pursuing this goal, the fund invests at least 80% of its assets in municipal bonds. Under normal market conditions, the weighted average maturity of the fund's portfolio is expected to exceed 10 years. Under normal market conditions, the fund invests at least 80% of its net assets in municipal bonds considered investment grade or the unrated equivalent as determined by Dreyfus.

The fund also has issued auction-rate preferred stock (ARPS), a percentage of which remains outstanding from its initial public offering, and has invested the proceeds in a manner consistent with its investment objective. This, along with the fund's participation in secondary inverse floater structures, has the effect of "leveraging" the portfolio, which can magnify gain and loss potential depending on market conditions.

Over time, many of the fund's older, higher-yielding bonds have matured or were redeemed by their issuers. We have attempted to replace those bonds with investments consistent with the fund's investment policies. We have also sought to upgrade the fund with newly issued bonds that, in our opinion, have better structural or income characteristics than existing holdings. When such opportunities arise, we usually look to sell bonds that are close to their optional redemption date or maturity.

Supply-and-Demand Dynamics Buoyed Municipal Bonds

Volatility in the municipal bond market increased markedly in the weeks prior to the start of the reporting period when issuers came to market with a flood of new securities in anticipation of short-term interest-rate hikes from the Federal Reserve Board. In addition, the unexpected election of a new presidential administration sparked uncertainty regarding potential changes in tax policy.

These negative trends reversed in December, and municipal bonds rebounded from low valuations, recouping previous losses when the supply of newly issued securities moderated and demand increased as investors realized that tax reform will take time and political capital to enact.

Although growth in tax revenues has slowed, and several states are facing pressure from underfunded pension systems, credit conditions have remained stable for most municipal bond issuers.

Long Duration Posture Supported Fund Results

A relatively long average duration and an emphasis on municipal bonds with longer maturities proved detrimental during the market selloff prior to the reporting period, but the same positioning helped the fund participate more fully in the benefits of declining longer-term bond yields over the first five months of 2017.

Our sector allocation and security selection strategies also produced relatively strong results. An emphasis on higher-yielding revenue-backed bonds and a correspondingly underweighted position in lower-yielding general obligation bonds enabled the fund to maintain a positive yield. The fund achieved particularly favorable contributions from revenue bonds backed by airports and states' settlement of litigation with U.S. tobacco companies. The fund further benefited from lack of exposure to distressed Puerto Rico securities. These positions more than offset relatively weak results from municipal bonds backed by revenues from health care facilities and essential municipal services, such as public power plants and water-and-sewer facilities.

The fund's leveraging strategy proved effective in this market environment, helping to magnify its positive results.

Positioned for a Constructive Market Environment

The municipal bond market recently has shown signs of renewed strength. Investors who may have overreacted to the tax implications of the presidential election appear to have adopted a more balanced perspective, and tax-exempt investments should remain attractive to high earners even if the top tax rate is reduced somewhat. In addition, municipal bonds historically have proved less sensitive to rising short-term interest rates than U.S. Treasury securities with comparable maturities.

As of the end of the reporting period, we have maintained the fund's emphasis on higher-yielding revenue-backed bonds. We also have retained relatively light exposure to general obligation bonds, which typically offer lower yields. We have continued to set the fund's average duration in a relatively long position.

June 15, 2017

Bonds are subject generally to interest-rate, credit, liquidity, and market risks, to varying degrees, all of which are more fully described in the fund's prospectus. Generally, all other factors being equal, bond prices are inversely related to interest-rate changes, and rate increases can cause price declines.

High yield bonds are subject to increased credit risk and are considered speculative in terms of the issuer's perceived ability to continue making interest payments on a timely basis and to repay principal upon maturity.

The use of leverage may magnify the fund's gains or losses. For derivatives with a leveraging component, adverse changes in the value or level of the underlying asset can result in a loss that is much greater than the original investment in the derivative.

¹ Total return includes reinvestment of dividends and any capital gains paid, based upon net asset value per share. Past performance is no guarantee of future results. Income may be subject to state and local taxes, and some income may be subject to the federal alternative minimum tax (AMT) for certain investors. Capital gains, if any, are fully taxable. Return figures provided reflect the absorption of certain fund expenses by The Dreyfus Corporation pursuant to an undertaking in effect through November 30, 2017, at which time it may be extended, terminated, or modified. Had these expenses not been absorbed, the fund's returns would have been lower.
