Item 5. Other Events

On June 10, 2003, Lockheed Martin issued a press release announcing that it has filed a lawsuit against The Boeing Company and three of Boeing's former employees. The lawsuit alleges that Boeing and its employees committed violations of Federal and Florida law resulting from their solicitation, acquisition and use of Lockheed Martin proprietary information during the competition for launch contract awards under the U.S. Air Force's Evolved Expendable Launch Vehicle (EELV) program. A copy of the press release is attached as Exhibit No. 99 to this report and is incorporated herein by reference.

The complaint seeks compensatory damages, including treble and punitive damages, costs, and injunctive relief against all defendants. As with any litigation, there can be no assurance that Lockheed Martin will be successful in its efforts to recover damages or obtain other relief to compensate for the damages alleged to have been caused by the defendants. At this point, it also is too early to determine whether the actions alleged in the lawsuit or any remedies that may be imposed will affect the outcome of future competitions for U.S. Government or commercial launch vehicles.
