Item 1.01. Conflict Minerals Disclosure and Report

Calgon Carbon Corporation (Calgon Carbon , we or our) has evaluated its current product lines and determined that certain products that we manufacture or contract to manufacture contain tin, tungsten, tantalum, or gold, which are defined as conflict minerals by the United States Securities and Exchange Commission that are necessary to the functionality or production of our products. Accordingly, Calgon Carbon is filing this disclosure along with a Conflict Minerals Report to disclose the measures we have taken to determine the origin of the conflict minerals used in our products.

Conflict Minerals Disclosure

We undertook due diligence measures, including surveying our direct suppliers via a survey template for conflict minerals, to try to determine the sources of these minerals, which we purchase through a supply chain. Our findings have exposed that Calgon Carbon is unable to eliminate the probability of conflict minerals in certain products that we manufacture or contract to manufacture. With the inability to eliminate the probability at this time, Calgon Carbon is also unable to determine the exact origin of these minerals and cannot certify that materials have not been mined in the Democratic Republic of Congo or an adjoining country as defined by the United States Securities and Exchange Commission.

A copy of Calgon Carbon's Conflict Minerals Report for the reporting period from January 1, 2015 to December 31, 2015 is filed as Exhibit 1.01 hereto and is publicly available at www.calgoncarbon.com, under the heading For Investors .
