The following email and FAQ were provided to Electronic Clearing House, Inc. ("ECHO") employees in connection with the announcement that ECHO will adjourn its special meeting of stockholders relating to its proposed acquisition by Intuit Inc.

March 6, 2007

To: ECHO Employees

From: Chuck Harris

You may have heard that ECHO is going to adjourn our stockholder meeting because there are some closing conditions that still need to be satisfied. I just wanted to let you know that we do not expect any of these items to affect the closing of the transaction at this time - they just require additional time to be completed. See the attached FAQs for additional information about this adjournment.

Thanks to everyone that has been involved in this process and please continue to focus on the integration planning and to move forward on this acquisition.

Chuck

FAQs - Adjournment

Why are we adjourning our special meeting?

Our acquisition by Intuit requires a number of closing conditions to be satisfied before it can be completed. Certain of these conditions have not yet been satisfied. We are adjourning our special meeting to allow ourselves more time to satisfy these closing conditions and to complete our performance of certain pre-closing covenants.

We do not expect any of these items to affect the closing of the transaction at this time - they just require additional time to be completed.

Will this have any affect on my employment offer from Intuit?

No. If you have received an offer of employment from Intuit the terms of your offer will remain unchanged. Your employment with Intuit will commence following the closing of the merger, which is expected to occur one to two days after the date of the reconvened meeting. You will be invited to a new hire orientation meeting in connection with the closing of the merger.

What is the effect of the adjournment?

The adjournment will postpone the taking of a stockholder vote on the proposed merger with Intuit until the meeting is reconvened at 9:00 a.m. local time on March 27, 2007. The adjournment is not otherwise expected to affect the closing of the transaction.

How does this affect the closing and integration planning?

As noted above, we do not expect the adjournment to affect the closing of the transaction at this time. The adjournment was approved by Intuit. The only effect is expected to be that the closing and integration will occur one to two days after the date of the reconvened meeting instead of after the original March 7 meeting date. Everyone involved should continue to work hard to complete their integration planning efforts.
