This Week's View From The Window Seat

Gary Kelly>> It will provide new low fare competition to nearly all legacy carrier hubs in the United States that we do not serve today, offering millions of consumers new affordable travel options.

Megan>> This week, the acquisition announcement that took the aviation world by surprise.

Ashley>> We'll look at what bringing AirTran into the Southwest family could mean for all of us - and it's an exciting future!

Megan >> Welcome to the Window Seat. I'm Community Relations and Giving Senior Manager Megan Wood.

Ashley>>And I'm Communications Analyst Ashley Pettit.

Megan>> As Gary said following the news conference - Now, the real work begins as Southwest's work to successfully acquire AirTran Holdings, Inc., AirTran Airways' parent company, means more for us all - more routes, more destinations, and more opportunity.

Ashley>> So, what happens next? Well, the transaction is subject to certain approvals. Until closing, the two companies will continue to operate as independent airlines. For now, there will be no changes in how we do business in the near term as a result of the transaction.

Then, we need D-O-J and other certain regulatory approvals and AirTran stockholder approval.

After closing, the plan is to integrate AirTran and Southwest within two years.

Megan>> We've already seen a lot of questions here on SWALife - so time to ask Bob Jordan, our E-V-P of Strategy and Planning.

Ashley>> Las Vegas Ops Agent Scott Walos was curious about our Customer Experience.

Bob Jordan>> Well Scott, there are a ton of things to work through as far as planning this acquisition, and planning the integration, and so there are a lot of things we don't know. But a couple things we do know - we have a strong brand here at Southwest and we know we're going to keep our open seating, we're going to keep our boarding process, we are not going to have business class, but there are a lot of things that we're open to thinking about as we merge the companies.

Megan>> Jordan Rhea, in Las Vegas Ground Ops, asked if we'd be sticking with the 737 and not adding the 717 to the fleet.

Bob>> Well Jordan, we are actually very excited because AirTran has an all Boeing fleet just like we do, and we will be adding the 86 717's that they have, and we're very excited about that. They use those to serve a lot of smaller markets, and if you think about next spring, we'll be adding dots like Greenville and Charleston that are smaller cities for us and we're very excited about the possibility of the 717.

Ashley>> Michelle Campbell in the Albuquerque Center posted 10 minutes after the announcement - Exciting news, but isn't anyone concerned that, as a whole, we might be over-extending?

Bob>> You know Michelle, we have a lot of priorities, we have a lot of big projects we're working on Rapid Rewards, we're working on a new res system, and now we've got this big project with AirTran. Yeah we've got to backup and re-prioritize some things, we've got to think about it, but I am not concerned at all. We've got a great group and we can get this done.

Megan>> There's a lot more at a special web site - lowfaresfarther.com.

Ashley>> Be sure to share it with friends, family, and Customers who would like to know a little bit more.
