MEMO

DATE: December 30, 2013
FROM: Mike Bradley, President and CEO
TO: The Regency Energy Team
Subject: Regency to Acquire Midstream Assets from Eagle Rock and Hoover Energy

I am pleased to inform everyone that on Monday, December 23rd, Regency announced two acquisitions of significant strategic importance.

First, we will be acquiring midstream assets from Eagle Rock Energy Partners for approximately $1.3 billion. Eagle Rock owns and operates a network of natural gas midstream pipelines and processing plants, located primarily in the prolific Granite Wash area in the Texas Panhandle, and in the Austin Chalk and Woodbine areas in East Texas. Their midstream assets include approximately 8,100 miles of gathering pipeline and over 800 MMcf/d of processing capacity and its cash flows are supported by large, long-term acreage dedications.

This acquisition will complement Regency's core gathering and processing business, and when combined with the proposed acquisition of PVR Resources, will further diversify Regency's basin exposure in the Texas Panhandle, East Texas and South Texas. EROC's Texas Panhandle assets are very complementary to both the PVR and existing Regency midstream assets and, when combined, will position Regency as a stronger midstream provider in the area. The complementary nature of the combined systems will create the opportunity for significant operational efficiencies and very importantly, will allow us to focus on improving the services and optionality that we will be able to offer customers in the area.

Second, we have entered into an agreement to purchase midstream assets from Hoover Energy Partners for approximately $290 million. Hoover is a private company that provides midstream services, including crude oil gathering, transportation and terminaling, condensate handling, natural gas gathering, treating, processing, and water gathering and disposal services in Ward, Reeves, Loving and Pecos counties in the southern portion of the Delaware Basin.

This will be a very strategic acquisition for the combined Regency and SUGS assets as it increases our footprint in the developing Bone Spring, Wolfcamp and Wolfbone formations. Also very importantly, it will expand our services to now include crude gathering, and water gathering and disposal, for which significant demand exists in our operating area. With the high level of producer activity in the Permian Basin driven by oil and liquids, we believe this acquisition will provide an even stronger strategic platform on which to further expand our west Texas and New Mexico services through ongoing and proposed organic growth projects.

These transactions are subject to HSR approval and other customary closing conditions. In addition, the Eagle Rock acquisition is also subject to approval by Eagle Rock's unit holders. We estimate the Eagle Rock transaction will close in the second quarter of 2014, and the Hoover transaction will close in the first quarter of 2014. During the closing process, we will be limited in the amount of information we are able to provide, but will send updated information as it is available, and keep you as informed as possible.

More information related to these acquisitions can be found in the press releases issued last Monday morning, which are available on Regency's Web site.

These are both very exciting opportunities for Regency as we continue to build and strengthen our midstream portfolio of assets and enhance our services to our customers. Once again, I'd like to sincerely thank each of you for your dedication and hard work—it is much appreciated. Please feel free to come to me or any other member of the senior management team regarding any questions or ideas you have.
