4. WHAT ARE THE TERMS OF THE AGREEMENT?

Cypress and Spansion have agreed to combine in a tax-free, stock-for-stock merger of equals. At the closing, each share of Spansion will be exchanged for 2.457 shares of Cypress. This exchange ratio will result in Cypress and Spansion shareholders each owning approximately 50% of the combined company at closing.

5. WHAT IS THE TIMELINE?

The agreement was signed on December 1, 2014, and was unanimously approved by the Board of Directors of both Cypress and Spansion. The merger is conditioned upon the approval by each company's shareholders, various government and regulatory approvals, and other customary closing conditions for a transaction of this nature. We expect these conditions to be met and the merger to be closed in the first half of 2015.

6. WHAT DOES THIS MEAN FOR EMPLOYEES?

This merger of equals positions the combined company for new growth opportunities across our business by expanding our geographical presence, strengthening our product portfolio for embedded systems, and enhancing our positioning in strategic end-markets. Merging the two companies strengthens our position in the industry and provides the potential to accelerate growth and to scale investment in new products and solutions.

The enhanced growth prospects of the combined business will provide career enhancement opportunities for employees for the long term. The better we all perform, the more opportunities we will have.

Until the closing of the merger, each company will operate completely independently working hard to create and sell new solutions, improve quality, take care of our customers and continue to reduce costs.

Leadership teams from each company are developing a comprehensive integration plan for the merger that will be implemented after the closing, and employees from each company will be participating in the planning and execution of the integration. The challenge that we face is to create a highly effective organization that leverages the strengths of each company while realizing the synergies committed to our combined shareholders. We will be methodical and thoughtful about decisions relating to organizational change as we build the combined company with best-in-class processes, programs and people. We are not announcing any specific plans at this time. We will update employees as more information becomes available.

For any employees affected by a reduction-in-force due to the integration of the two companies, the combined company will provide for a severance package and proper treatment of other employment benefits under local laws.

7. WHY ARE CYPRESS AND SPANSION A GOOD CULTURAL MATCH?

Cypress and Spansion have very similar cultures with a commitment to winning deeply embedded in their respective core values. Both companies have succeeded over the long term, and have expanded beyond their core strengths in specialized memory for embedded systems to deliver leading embedded processing products. Cypress and Spansion are both focused on growing in the embedded market by providing innovative products and solutions in Automotive, Internet of Things, Industrial, Communications and Consumer markets.

8. WHAT ARE THE ADVANTAGES OF THE COMBINED COMPANY?

The combined company will deliver world-class solutions based on integrating memory, analog, mixed-signal, microcontroller and USB products with our firmware, software and programmability expertise.

Total revenue will be about $2B, including $1B in embedded solutions (MCU, PSoC, Analog and USB) and $1B in embedded memory (Flash and SRAM). We will benefit from economies of scale to improve efficiency, achieving more than $135M in annual savings within three years. We will also be able to improve service levels while providing better support for our customers globally.

The combined company will benefit from:

Cypress' s SRAM, nonvolatile FRAM, nonvolatile SRAM, TrueTouch, capacitive touch, USB and PSoC products will enhance Spansion' s flash, MCU and analog portfolio

Spansion' s microcontroller and embedded flash memory products, in addition to its strong worldwide customer connections, will complement Cypress' s product portfolio

Expanded and complementary products revenue streams will result in more stable revenue and profit generation on a quarterly basis

Significant manufacturing synergies will be achieved, with the potential for incremental customer/channel revenues due to a broader product portfolio

The combined company will be stronger than either company individually.

9. HOW COMPLEMENTARY ARE CYPRESS AND SPANSION PRODUCTS?

While the companies have similar strengths as embedded processing and memory companies, there is no direct product overlap. Cypress has leadership in SRAM, Spansion has leadership in NOR. Cypress has a leadership position in PSoC and USB, while Spansion has a leadership position in high-performance MCUs. The combined product portfolio will provide customers with a larger breadth of options for their embedded systems designs.

10. WHAT IS THE BENEFIT TO CUSTOMERS?

Customers will now have more options for a broad embedded product line offering (memory, PSoC, microcontroller, analog, mixed-signal), have access to increased systems-level expertise, and a continued commitment to quality, longevity, service and advanced technologies and products. In the future, this combination will enable us to produce even more advanced products and systems solutions for next-generation automotive, industrial and consumer applications electronics, resulting in faster and more energy-efficient products for our customers.

11. WHAT WILL BE THE NAME OF THE NEW COMPANY?

The combined company will retain the name Cypress Semiconductor Corporation.

12. WHO WILL BE ON THE LEADERSHIP TEAM OF THE COMBINED COMPANY?

The eight-member board of directors will consist of four members each from the prior boards of Spansion and Cypress. Spansion chairman Ray Bingham will be non-executive chairman. Thad Trent will be the CFO. For the time being, each company will continue to operate with their current structure. Additional changes will be announced as we complete the integration process.

13. HOW WILL THE TWO COMPANIES BE INTEGRATED?

While we await approval of the merger, both companies will operate independently.

The Cypress and Spansion teams have already been working closely together and will develop a comprehensive and cohesive integration plan prior to closing. This way, when we do close the transaction, we will hit the ground running.

14. WHERE WILL THE NEW COMPANY MANUFACTURING BE LOCATED?

Spansion has facilities in Austin (fab) and Bangkok (assembly & test). Spansion's foundry partners include Fujitsu, XMC, UMC and Tower Jazz, and major assembly/test partners include J-Devices, Nantong, ChipMOS and ASE. Cypress has facilities in Minnesota (fab) and Manila (assembly & test). Cypress foundry partners include HH Grace, TI and UMC. Cypress's major assembly & test partner is ASE. The integration planning will address the appropriate utilization across the combined company's internal and external sources.

15. WILL THIS MERGER AFFECT MY BENEFITS?

This merger will have no effect on 2015 benefits. Spansion employees will continue with Spansion benefits for 2015. Cypress employees will continue with Cypress benefits for 2015. Any changes for 2016 and beyond will be announced after integration planning.

16. WILL SPANSION EMPLOYEES IN SUNNYVALE MOVE TO THE NEW SPANSION BUILDING IN SAN JOSE?

We are re-examining this. At this time, the move is on hold.

17. WILL THE COMBINED COMPANY CONTINUE TO OFFER A DIVIDEND?

Yes, the combined company will continue to pay $0.11 per share in quarterly dividends to stockholders.

18. HOW WILL CUSTOMERS FIND PRODUCT INFORMATION AND GET SUPPORT?

Initially, both Spansion and Cypress will continue operating their own independent websites and sales & distribution channels. It is in both companies' best interests to minimize the impact to our customers, create one sales and marketing organization, and make this transition as smooth as possible.
