PART III - NARRATIVE

State below in reasonable detail the reasons why Forms 10-K, 20-F, 11-K, 10-Q, 10-D, N-SAR, N-CSR, or the transition report or portion thereof, could not be filed within the prescribed time period.

American Apparel, Inc. (the "Company") has determined that it is unable to file its Quarterly Report on Form 10-Q for the fiscal quarter ended June 30, 2015 (the "Q2 2015 Form 10-Q") within the prescribed time period without unreasonable effort or expense for the reasons described below:

During the preparation and review of its interim financial statements for the fiscal quarter ended June 30, 2015, the Company identified potential non-compliance with its covenants for certain minimum financial ratios contained in its asset-backed revolving credit facility with Capital One Business Credit Corp. ("Capital One" and such facility, the "Capital One Credit Facility") described in more detail below, and the Company has been in ongoing discussions with Capital One and other financial stakeholders regarding potential waivers to such facility that may be required by such potential defaults. As a result of those ongoing discussions and other related matters that have required the attention of senior management and other key personnel, the Company could not, without unreasonable effort and expense, complete its financial statements for the three and six months ended June 30, 2015 and related disclosures and, consequently, could not file its Q2 2015 Form 10-Q within the prescribed time period. The Company currently intends to file the Q2 2015 Form 10-Q within 5 calendar days of its prescribed due date.

The Company is currently engaged in discussions with Capital One with respect to a waiver of the Company's noncompliance with, and any actual or potential event of default resulting from such noncompliance with, certain financial maintenance covenants under the Capital One Credit Facility for the second quarter of 2015. In addition, the Company has been informed by Standard General Group ("Standard General") that it intends to purchase all of the loans and commitments outstanding under the Capital One Credit Facility in accordance with its previously disclosed March 2015 agreement with Capital One. There can be no assurance that such waivers will be obtained on terms acceptable to the Company or at all, and the failure to obtain such waivers could have a material adverse effect on the Company's financial condition and results of operations.

Additionally, the Company has been working with its advisers and has begun discussions with certain key financial stakeholders to analyze potential strategic and financial alternatives, which may include, among other things, refinancing or new capital raising transactions, amendments to or restructuring of its existing indebtedness and other obligations, and consideration of other restructuring and recapitalization transactions.

As of the date of this filing, substantial uncertainty exists as to the ultimate outcome of our discussions with Capital One and our other financial stakeholders, and there are no assurances that such efforts will result in any transaction or agreement, or that any such transaction or agreement, if proposed and/or implemented, will be successful. The Company does not currently expect that it will have sufficient financing commitments to meet funding requirements for the next twelve months without raising additional capital and/or entering into some other financing transaction or agreement, and there can be no assurances that it will be able to raise such additional capital or refinance its obligations. In addition, whether or not any such transactions or agreements were implemented or successful, the Company's existing and any new investors could suffer substantial or total losses of their investment in its common stock.

EBITDA add backs

Sale of slow-moving inventory program discounts - In the first quarter management implemented an initiative to accelerate the sale of slow moving inventory with a graduated sales discount program through our retail and online sales channels, as well as through certain off-price channels. The program resulted in a significant reduction of slow moving inventory. This program is a part of management's strategic shift to change the profile of our inventory and actively reduce inventory levels to improve store merchandising, working capital and liquidity. There was minimal activity related to this program in the second quarter.

Customs settlements and contingencies - As previously disclosed, we have been subject to, and have recorded charges related to, customs and similar audit settlements and contingencies in certain jurisdictions.

Litigation and professional fees - We incurred additional legal, litigation and consulting costs related to various claims and lawsuits and the sale of the slow moving inventory in the first quarter.

Employment settlements and severance - In 2011, an industrial accident at our facility in Orange County, California resulted in a fatality to one of our employees, and in accordance with law, a mandatory criminal investigation was initiated. In addition, we had previously disclosed employment-related claims and experienced unusually high employee severance costs during 2014.

Lease amendment - On July 27, 2015, we entered into a second amendment to the lease agreement for our headquarters and manufacturing facility in Los Angeles, California, resolving certain alleged breaches under the lease agreement with the landlord.

Definitions and Disclosures Regarding Non-GAAP Financial Information

The Company reports and discusses its operating results using financial measures consistent with generally accepted accounting principles (GAAP) and believes that this should be the primary basis for evaluating the Company's performance.

The preceding discussion of the Company's results of operations includes a discussion of non-GAAP financial measures including the following: Adjusted Earnings before Interest, Taxes, Depreciation and Amortization (Adjusted EBITDA); gross profit, excluding significant charges; operating expenses, excluding significant charges; and (loss) income from operations, excluding significant charges. These non-GAAP measures should not be viewed as alternatives or substitutes for GAAP reporting.

The Company believes the presentation of these non-GAAP measures is useful to investors because they are used by lenders to measure its ability to service debt, by industry analysts to determine the market value of the Company and by management to identify cash available to service debt, make investments, maintain capital assets and fund ongoing operations and working capital needs. Additionally, these measures allow management to gauge company operating performance by isolating the effects of significant charges.

Adjusted EBITDA is calculated as income or loss from operations plus income tax provision, interest expense, depreciation and amortization, share based compensation expense, retail store impairment, and the effects of significant charges (sale of slow moving inventory, and internal investigation, litigation and professional fees), plus or minus unrealized gain or loss on change in fair value of warrants and foreign currency transaction gain or loss.

Gross profit, excluding significant charges, is calculated as gross profit less significant charges related to the sale of slow moving inventory, and internal investigation, litigation and professional fees.

Operating expenses excluding a significant charge is calculated as operating expenses less significant charges related to the internal investigation, litigation and professional fees.

Loss from operations excluding a significant charge is calculated as loss from operations less a significant charge related to the sale of slow moving inventory, and internal investigation, litigation and professional fees.
