Based on our sales pipeline and market momentum, we anticipate continued growth in our business for the foreseeable future, as we further implement our strategy." Sammon concluded, "At this point, our attention is squarely focused on the execution of business fundamentals, continued revenue growth, new customer signings, increased penetration in our existing markets and new product development. We need to capitalize on our opportunities and leverage our growth throughout all of our operations worldwide, while continuing to deliver high-quality technology products to our customers on time. In addition, we must also strive to bring new acquisitions on line quickly and effectively to meet our high standards of operational excellence.
