The Company. The J. M. Smucker Company (the Company) was established in 1897 and was incorporated in Ohio in 1921. The Company, often referred to as Smucker's (a registered trademark), operates principally in one industry, the manufacturing and marketing of branded food products on a worldwide basis, although the majority of the Company's sales are in the U.S. The Company's operations outside the U.S. are principally in Canada although products are exported to other countries as well. Sales outside the U.S. represented approximately 11 percent of total consolidated Company sales for fiscal 2009. The Company's branded food products include a strong portfolio of trusted, iconic, market-leading brands that are sold to consumers through retail outlets in North America.

On November 6, 2008, the Company completed a merger transaction with The Folgers Coffee Company (Folgers), a subsidiary of The Procter & Gamble Company (P&G). The value of the transaction was approximately $3.7 billion, including the issuance of Smucker common shares in connection with the merger and $350 million of Folgers debt. Under the terms of the transaction agreements, P&G distributed common shares of Folgers to participating P&G shareholders which were then automatically converted into the right to receive Smucker common shares in the merger. Immediately following the merger, P&G shareholders and pre-merger Company shareholders owned approximately 53.5 percent and 46.5 percent, respectively, of the Company's approximately 118 million common shares outstanding. The merger was accounted for as a purchase business combination, with the Company treated as the acquiring entity.

The Company has four reportable segments: U.S. retail consumer market, U.S. retail oils and baking market, U.S. retail coffee market, and special markets. The Company's three U.S. retail market segments in total comprised nearly 80 percent of the Company's net sales in fiscal 2009 and represent a major portion of the strategic focus area for the Company—the sale of branded food products with leadership positions to consumers through retail outlets in North America. The special markets segment represents sales outside of the U.S. retail markets and includes the Company's Canada, foodservice, natural foods (formerly beverage), and international businesses.

Principal Products. The principal products of the Company, which are sold across the Company's U.S. retail market segments and special markets segment, are coffee, peanut butter, shortening and oils, fruit spreads, canned milk, baking mixes and ready-to-spread frostings, flour and baking ingredients, juices and beverages, frozen sandwiches, dessert toppings, syrups, pickles and condiments, and potato side dishes.

Product sales information for the years 2009, 2008, and 2007 is incorporated herein by reference to information set forth in the Company's 2009 Annual Report to Shareholders, on pages 42 through 44 under Note D: Reportable Segments.

In each of the U.S. retail market segments, the Company's products are primarily sold through a combination of direct sales and through brokers to food retailers, food wholesalers, drug stores, club stores, mass merchandisers, discount and dollar stores, and military commissaries. In the special markets segment, the Company's products are distributed domestically and in foreign countries through retail channels, foodservice distributors and operators (i.e., restaurants, schools and universities, healthcare operators), health and natural foods stores and distributors.

Sources and Availability of Raw Materials. The raw materials used by the Company in each of its segments are primarily commodities and agricultural-based products. Glass, plastic, steel cans, caps, carton board, and corrugate are the principal packaging materials used by the Company. The fruit and vegetable raw materials used by the Company in the production of its food products are purchased from independent growers and suppliers. Green coffee, peanuts, oils, sweeteners, milk, wheat and flour, corn, and other ingredients are obtained from various suppliers. The cost and availability of many of these commodities have fluctuated, and may continue to fluctuate, over time. The Company uses commodity futures and options to manage a significant portion of its commodity costs. Green coffee is the world's second largest traded commodity and is sourced solely from foreign countries. Green coffee's supply and price are subject to high volatility due to factors such as weather, pest damage, and political and economic conditions in the source countries. Raw materials are generally available from numerous sources, and the Company believes that it will continue to be able to obtain adequate supplies. The Company has not historically encountered significant shortages of key raw materials. The Company considers its relationship with key raw material suppliers to be good.

Trademarks and Patents. The Company's products are produced under certain patents and marketed under numerous trademarks owned or licensed by the Company or one of its subsidiaries. Major trademarks, utilized primarily in the U.S. retail market segments, include: Smucker's®, Jif®, Hungry Jack®, Mary Ellen®, Dutch Girl®, Uncrustables®, Snack n Waffles, Simply Jif®, Dickinson's®, Crosse & Blackwell®, Adams®, Laura Scudder's®, Goober®, Golden Temple® and Magic Shell®, in the consumer segment; Crisco®, Pillsbury®, Eagle Brand®, Borden® and Elsie design, Martha White®, LaPina®, White Lily®, Softasilk®, Funfetti®, Pet®, and Simple Measures® in the oils and baking segment; and Folgers®, Dunkin' Donuts®, and Millstone® in the coffee segment.

Major trademarks utilized in the special markets segment include: Folgers®, Smucker's®, Jif®, Crisco®, Plate Scapers®, Bick's®, Five Roses®, Robin Hood®, Carnation®, Europe's Best®, R. W. Knudsen Family®, Santa Cruz Organic®, Double Fruit®, Simply Nutritious®, Recharge®, and Red River®.

Pillsbury®, the Barrelhead logo, and Doughboy character are trademarks of The Pillsbury Company LLC and are used by the Company under a 20-year, perpetually renewable, royalty-free license. Borden® and the Elsie design are trademarks used by the Company on certain products under a perpetual, exclusive, and royalty-free license. Carnation® is a trademark of Société des Produits Nestlé S.A., used by the Company's Canadian subsidiary for certain canned milk products in certain territories under an exclusive and royalty-free license with an initial term of 10 years, renewable by the Company for two successive five-year terms and which becomes perpetual at the end of the renewal terms under certain circumstances. Dunkin' Donuts® is a registered trademark of DD IP Holder LLC used by the Company under license (the Dunkin' License). The terms of the Dunkin' License include the payment of royalties to DD IP Holder LLC and other financial commitments by the Company. The Dunkin' License is in effect until January 1, 2034. In addition, the Company or one of its subsidiaries licenses the use of several other trademarks, none of which individually is material to the Company's business.

Slogans or designs considered to be important trademarks include, without limitation, the slogan, With A Name Like Smucker's, It Has To Be Good, The Best Part of Waking Up Is Folgers In Your Cup, Wake Up Special Every Day, Mountain Grown, Choosy Moms Choose Jif, Purely The Finest, Crisco is Cooking, Everybody's Happy When It's Hungry Jack, Goodness Gracious, It's Good, the Smucker's banner, the Crock Jar shape, the Gingham design, and the Strawberry logo.

The Company owns several hundred patents worldwide in addition to proprietary trade secrets, technology, know-how processes and other intellectual property rights that are not registered.

The Company considers all of its intellectual property and the Pillsbury®, Dunkin' Donuts®, BORDEN®, Elsie design, and Carnation® licenses, taken as a whole, to be essential to its business.

Seasonality. The Company's U.S. retail oils and baking market and U.S. retail coffee market businesses are particularly seasonal around the fall bake and holiday period, which generally results in higher sales and profits in the Company's second and third quarters. The Company's success in promoting and merchandising its baking and coffee brands during the fall bake and holiday period has a significant impact on its results for a fiscal year. The back-to-school period and the spring holiday season are two other important promotional periods for the Company, although their impact to the Company is not as significant as the fall bake and holiday period.

Table of Contents

Working Capital. Working capital requirements are greatest during the first half of the Company's fiscal year mainly due to the timing of fruit and vegetable procurement, the buildup of oil, baking, and coffee inventories necessary to support the fall bake and holiday period, and the additional buildup of coffee inventory in advance of the Atlantic hurricane season.

Customers. Sales to Wal-Mart Stores, Inc., and its subsidiaries amounted to approximately 24 percent, 20 percent, and 20 percent of net sales in 2009, 2008, and 2007, respectively. These sales are primarily included in the U.S. retail market segments. No other customer exceeded 10 percent of net sales during 2009, 2008, and 2007.

During 2009, the Company's top 10 customers, collectively, accounted for approximately 61 percent of consolidated net sales reflecting consolidation in the grocery industry in recent years. The Company expects industry consolidation to continue. Although the loss of any large customer for an extended length of time could negatively impact the Company's sales and profits, the Company does not anticipate that this will occur to a significant extent due to strong consumer demand for the Company's products.

Orders. Generally, orders are filled within a few days of receipt, and the backlog of unfilled orders at any particular time has not been material on a historical basis.

Government Business. No material portion of the Company's business is subject to negotiation of profits or termination of contracts at the election of the government.

Competition. The Company is the branded market leader in the coffee, peanut butter, shortening and oils, sweetened condensed milk, fruit spreads, dessert toppings, and health and natural foods beverages categories. The Company's business is highly competitive as all of its U.S. retail market segments' brands compete for retail shelf space with other advertised and branded products as well as unadvertised and private label products.

The continued growth of alternative store formats, product and packaging innovations, technological advances, and new industry techniques are all issues for companies in the food industry to consider in order to remain competitive. The primary ways in which products are distinguished are product quality, price, packaging, new product introductions, nutritional value, convenience, customer service, advertising, and promotion. Positive factors pertaining to the Company's competitive position include well-recognized brands, superior product quality, experienced brand management, a single national grocery broker in the United States, varied product offerings, product innovation, and a strong distribution network.

The Company historically has seen accelerated private label growth during challenging economic times. During 2009, private label gained share of market in most categories within the grocery store in which the Company competes. The Company estimates that during the current economic recession, private label has grown more than during past recessions partly due to the unprecedented run up in commodity costs combined with improvements in private label quality. The Company believes that both private label and leading brands play an important role in all of the food categories in which it competes, appealing to different consumer segments. The Company closely monitors the price gap or price premium between its brands and private label, with the view that value is about more than price and the expectation that number one brands will continue to be an integral part of consumers' shopping baskets.

In the consumer segment, the Jif® brand has been a leader in the peanut butter category for over 20 years, while the Company's natural peanut butter business, sold under the Smucker's®, Adam's®, and Laura Scudder's® brands, maintains a strong leadership position in the natural peanut butter category. The Company's fruit spread brands, including Smucker's®, Dickinson's®, and Knott's Berry Farm® hold the leading position in the fruit spreads category and compete with Welch's branded line of fruit spreads and many private label brands. The competing brands exist on both a national and a regional level. The Company's Hungry Jack® brand competes in three primary market categories: pancake mix, potato side dishes, and table syrup. The Company competes with several major national as well as private label brands in these categories.

In the oils and baking segment, Crisco® has been a leader in the shortening and cooking oils categories for over 50 years. Crisco® holds a leading position among branded competitors in both the oils and shortening categories. The oils category in which Crisco® competes is a more competitive category due to a significant private label presence and volatile commodity pricing. The Company's Pillsbury® brand competes in the dessert and baking mixes ( DBM ) market that includes mixes for cakes, cookies, brownies, muffins, and quick breads, as well as ready-to-spread frostings and ingredients used in scratch baking such as flour. Within the DBM category, the Company competes primarily with the Betty Crocker and Duncan Hines brands and many private label brands. The Company competes in the canned milk category with both branded and nonbranded products. The Company is the branded market leader in the sweetened condensed category with over 50 percent market share with its Eagle Brand® and Magnolia® brands; and, has significant sales with production of private label brands. In the evaporated milk category, the Company has a significant presence with its production of private label brands and the PET® brand where it competes primarily with one major national brand.

In the coffee segment, the Folgers® brand competes in the highly competitive U.S. packaged roast and ground coffee market with other retail coffee roasters such as Maxwell House, Yuban, General Foods International Coffee, Starbucks and Seattle's Best, and others. The Company also competes in the premium gourmet coffee market through its Millstone®, Folgers Gourmet Selections® brands, as well as through sales of Dunkin' Donuts® licensed retail packaged coffee products. The Company's coffee business also faces competition from the specialty or gourmet away-from-home coffee market, a significant market in the coffee industry and a market in which the Company does not compete.

Research and Development. The Company predominantly utilizes in-house resources to both develop new products and improve existing products in each of its business areas. Amounts expensed for product development were $14,498,000, $9,547,000, and $9,680,000 in 2009, 2008, and 2007, respectively.

Environmental Matters. Compliance with the provisions of federal, state, and local environmental regulations regarding either the discharge of materials into the environment or the protection of the environment is not expected to have a material effect upon the Company's capital expenditures, earnings, or competitive position.

Employees. At April 30, 2009, the Company had approximately 4,700 full-time employees, worldwide. Approximately 34 percent of these employees, located at 11 facilities, are covered by union contracts. These contracts vary in term depending on the location. The Company believes its relations with its current employees are good.

Financial Information about Industry Segments and Geographical Areas. The financial information required to be included in this item concerning reportable industry segments and international operations for the years 2009, 2008, and 2007 is incorporated herein by reference to information set forth in the Company's 2009 Annual Report to Shareholders, on pages 42 through 44, under Note D: Reportable Segments. The Company's international operations are primarily in Canada with risks similar to those associated with the U.S. retail markets. The Company's Canada sales primarily represent the sale of Canadian produced products to Canadian customers.

Forward-Looking Statements. This report includes forward-looking statements that are based on current expectations and are subject to a number of risks and uncertainties that could cause actual results to differ materially from expected or projected results. The descriptions of risks and uncertainties relating to forward-looking statements is incorporated herein by reference to information set forth in the Company's 2009 Annual Report to Shareholders under the caption Forward-Looking Statements on page 27.

Available Information. Access to all Securities and Exchange Commission ( SEC ) filings made by the Company, including its annual report on Form 10-K, quarterly reports on Form 10-Q, current reports on Form 8-K, and amendments to those reports filed or furnished pursuant to Section 13(a) or 15(d) of the Exchange Act, is provided, free of charge, on the Company's Web site (www.smuckers.com) as soon as reasonably practicable after such reports are electronically filed with, or furnished to, the SEC.

Item 1A. Risk Factors.

The Company's business, operations, and financial condition are subject to various risks and uncertainties. The risk factors described below should be carefully considered, together with the other information contained or incorporated by reference in the Annual Report on Form 10-K and in the Company's other filings with the SEC, in connection with evaluating the Company, its business and the forward-looking statements contained in this Report. Additional risks and uncertainties not presently known to the Company or that the Company currently deems immaterial also may affect the Company. The occurrence of any of these known or unknown risks could have a material adverse impact on the Company's business, financial condition, and results of operations.

The Company operates in the competitive food industry and relies on continued demand for the Company's products.

The Company faces competition across its product lines from other food companies with the primary methods and factors in competition being product quality, price, packaging, new product introductions, nutritional value, convenience, customer service, advertising, and promotion. In order to generate future revenues and profits, the Company must continue to sell products that appeal to the Company's customers and consumers. Specifically, there are a number of trends in consumer preferences that may impact the Company and the food industry as a whole including convenience, consumer dietary trends, and obesity, health and nutritional concerns. Continued success is dependent on product innovation, the ability to secure and maintain adequate retail shelf space, and effective trade merchandising, advertising, and marketing programs. Some of the Company's competitors have substantial financial, marketing, and other resources, and competition with them in the Company's various markets and product lines could cause the Company to reduce prices, increase marketing or other expenditures, or lose category share. Category share and growth could be adversely impacted if the Company is not successful in introducing new products.

Consumers may shift purchases to lower-priced private label or other value offerings during economic downturns, which may adversely affect the Company's results of operations.

During economic downturns, consumers may be less willing or able to pay a price differential for the Company's branded products, and may increasingly purchase more lower-priced offerings and may forego some purchases altogether. The Company has experienced increased competitive pressure from private label products during recent periods. Retailers may also increase levels of promotional activity for lower-priced or value offerings as they seek to maintain sales volumes during times of economic uncertainty. Accordingly, economic downturns could reduce sales volumes of the Company's branded products or lead to a shift in sales mix toward its lower margin offerings, which could have an adverse effect on its results of operations.

The success of the Company's business depends substantially on consumer perceptions of its brands.

The Company believes that maintaining and continually enhancing the value of its brands is critical to the success of its business. Brand value is based in large part on consumer perceptions. Success in promoting and enhancing brand value depends in large part on the Company's ability to provide high quality products. Brand value could diminish significantly as a result of a number of factors, such as if the Company fails to preserve the quality of its products, if the Company is perceived to act in an irresponsible manner, if the Company or its brands otherwise receive negative publicity, if the brands fail to deliver a consistently positive consumer experience or if the products become unavailable to consumers. If the Company's brand values are diminished, the Company's revenues and operating results could be materially adversely affected. In addition, anything that adversely affects the Pillsbury®, Carnation®, Borden®, or Dunkin' Donuts® brand could adversely affect the success of the Company's exclusive licensing agreements with the owners of these brands.

The Company's proprietary coffee brands, packaging designs, and roasting methods are essential to the value of the coffee business and the inability to protect these could harm the value of its brands and adversely affect its sales and profitability.

The success of the coffee business depends significantly on its brands, know-how, and other intellectual property. The Company relies on a combination of trademarks, service marks, trade secrets, patents, copyrights, and similar rights to protect its intellectual property. The success of the Company's growth strategy depends on its continued ability to use its existing trademarks and service marks in order to maintain and increase brand awareness and further develop its brand. If the Company's efforts to protect its intellectual property are not adequate, or if any third party misappropriates or infringes on its intellectual property, the value of the Company's brand may be harmed, which could have a material adverse effect on its business. From time to time, the Company is engaged in litigation to protect its intellectual property, which could result in substantial costs to the Company as well as diversion of management attention.

Additionally, the Company considers its proprietary roasting methods essential to the consistent flavor and richness of its coffee products and, therefore, essential to its brands. Because many of the roasting methods used by the Company are not protected by patents, it may be difficult for the Company to prevent competitors from copying its roasting methods if such methods become known. The Company also believes that its packaging innovations, such as brick packaging technology and its AromaSeal™ canisters, are important to the coffee business' marketing and operational efforts. If the Company's competitors copy its roasting or packaging methods or develop more advanced roasting or packaging methods, the value of the Folgers® coffee brand may be diminished, and the Company could lose customers to its competitors.

The Company's operations are subject to the general risks of the food industry.

The food industry is subject to risks posed by food spoilage and contamination, product tampering, product recall, and consumer product liability claims. The Company's operations could be impacted by both genuine and fictitious claims regarding the Company's and competitors' products. In the event of product contamination or tampering, the Company may need to recall some of its products. A widespread product recall could result in significant loss due to the cost of conducting a product recall, including destruction of inventory and the loss of sales resulting from the unavailability of product for a period of time. The Company could also suffer losses from a significant product liability judgment against it. Either a significant product recall or a product liability judgment, involving either the Company or its competitors, could also result in a loss of consumer confidence in the Company's food products or the food category, and an actual or perceived loss of value of the Company's brands, materially impacting consumer demand.

Since January 2009, peanut butter and other peanut products manufactured with peanuts sourced from an unrelated third-party manufacturer, Peanut Corporation of America (PCA), facilities in Georgia and Texas have been the subject of product recalls. While the Company's Jif®, Smucker's®, Adams®, Laura Scudder's® and Smucker's Uncrustables® products are not involved in the PCA recalls, sales of the Company's peanut butter products have been adversely affected by the recall during the fourth quarter of 2009. The Company does not expect this recall to have a long-term impact on the peanut butter business.

The Company could be subject to adverse publicity or claims from consumers.

Certain of the Company's products contain caffeine and other active compounds, the health effects of which are the subject of increasing public scrutiny, including the suggestion that consumption of coffee, caffeine and other active compounds may have adverse health effects. An unfavorable report on the health effects of caffeine or other compounds present in the Company's products, product recalls or negative publicity or litigation arising from other health risks could significantly reduce the demand for the Company's products.

The Company may also be subject to complaints from or litigation by consumers who allege food and beverage-related illness, or other quality, health or operational concerns. Adverse publicity resulting from such allegations could materially adversely affect the Company, regardless of whether such allegations are true or whether the Company is ultimately held liable. A lawsuit or claim could result in an adverse decision against the Company, which could have a material adverse effect on its business, financial condition and results of operations.

Certain of the Company's products are sourced from single manufacturing sites.

The Company has consolidated its production capacity for certain products into single manufacturing sites. It is possible the Company could experience a production disruption at these or any of its manufacturing sites resulting in a reduction or elimination of the availability of some of the Company's products. Should the Company not be able to obtain alternate production capability in a timely manner, a negative impact on the Company's operations could result.

The Company's business could be harmed by strikes or work stoppages.

As of April 30, 2009, approximately 34 percent of the Company's employees, located at 11 facilities, are covered by union contracts. These contracts vary in term depending on location. The Company cannot assure that it will be able to negotiate these collective bargaining agreements on the same or more favorable terms as the current agreements, or at all, without production interruptions caused by labor stoppages. If a strike or work stoppage were to occur in connection with negotiations of new collective bargaining agreements, or as a result of disputes under collective bargaining agreements with labor unions, the Company's business, financial condition, and results of operations could be materially adversely affected.

If there is a significant interruption in the operation of any of the Company's facilities or third-party distribution centers, the Company may not have the capacity to service its customers in a timely manner, thereby reducing its revenues and earnings.

A significant interruption in the operation of any of the Company's facilities or third-party distribution centers, particularly facilities in New Orleans where approximately 80 percent of the Company's coffee production capacity is located, whether as a result of a natural disaster, flu pandemic, or other causes, could significantly impair the Company's ability to operate its business. For example, in August 2005, Hurricane Katrina caused catastrophic damage to the New Orleans area. Following the hurricane, production at the New Orleans facility was interrupted for approximately two months, resulting in a significant decline in coffee revenues for the first half of fiscal 2006. A significant interruption in the operation of one of the Company's facilities or third-party distribution centers may affect its ability to service all of its customers, and business may be lost to its competitors, resulting in a material adverse effect to the Company's revenues, earnings, and financial position.

The effects of a potential pandemic illness could adversely affect the Company's businesses.

An outbreak of pandemic illness in a given location could severely interfere with and substantially disrupt the Company's supply chain impacting the manufacture and/or shipment of the Company's products and could have a material adverse effect on its operations. A prolonged recurrence of a pandemic illness could also adversely affect the Company's customers and cause an immediate and prolonged drop in consumer demand for the Company's products. Any of these events could adversely affect the Company's financial condition and results of operations. The general impact, if any, of a pandemic illness on the Company's operations, its results of operations and financial condition is highly speculative, cannot be accurately predicted or quantified, and would depend on numerous factors, including the rate of contagion, the regions most affected, the effectiveness of treatment for the infected population and the rates of mortality and morbidity.

Impairment in the carrying value of acquired goodwill or other intangible assets could negatively affect the Company's consolidated operating results and net worth.

A significant portion of the Company's assets is goodwill and other intangible assets, the majority of which are not amortized but are reviewed at least annually for impairment. If the carrying value of these assets exceeds the current fair value, the asset is considered impaired and is reduced to fair value resulting in a noncash charge to earnings. Events and conditions that could result in impairment include a sustained drop in the market price of the Company's common shares, increased competition or loss of market share, product innovation or obsolescence, or product claims that result in a significant loss of sales or profitability over the product life. At April 30, 2009, the carrying value of goodwill and other intangible assets totaled approximately $5.9 billion, compared to total assets of approximately $8.2 billion and total shareholders' equity of approximately $4.9 billion.

The results of the Company may be adversely impacted as a result of limited availability and increases in the price of raw materials, including agricultural commodities and fuel.

The Company utilizes many different commodities and agricultural products in the manufacturing of its products including green coffee, peanuts, corn sweeteners, edible oils, sugar, fruit, wheat, milk, and cocoa. In addition, natural gas and fuel oil are necessary components of the manufacturing process, packaging, and distribution of the Company's products. These commodities and agricultural products are subject to price volatility caused by commodity market fluctuations, the quality and availability of supply, weather, currency fluctuations, speculative influences, trade agreements, political unrest, consumer demand, and changes in governmental agricultural programs. Although the Company utilizes forward contracts and commodity futures and option contracts to manage commodity prices in some instances, commodity price increases ultimately result in corresponding increases in the Company's raw material and energy costs. The Company may be limited in its ability to pass these cost increases on in the form of price increases or may incur a loss in sales volume to the extent pricing increases are taken.

The Company's efforts to manage commodity and other price volatility through derivative instruments could adversely affect its results of operations and financial condition.

The Company uses derivative instruments, including commodity futures and options, to reduce the price volatility associated with anticipated commodity purchases. The extent of the Company's derivative position at any given time depends on the Company's assessment of the markets for these commodities. If the Company fails to take a derivative position and prices subsequently increase, or if it institutes a position and prices subsequently decrease, the Company's costs may be greater than anticipated and financial results could be adversely affected. In addition, the Company's liquidity may be adversely impacted by the cash margin requirements of the commodities exchanges or the failure of a counterparty to perform in accordance with a contract.

Increases in logistics and other transportation-related costs could materially adversely impact the Company's results of operations. The Company's ability to competitively serve customers depends on the availability of reliable transportation.

Logistics and other transportation-related costs have a significant impact on the Company's earnings and results of operations. The Company uses multiple forms of transportation to bring the Company's products to market. They include ships, trucks, intermodals, and railcars. Disruption to the timely supply of these services or increases in the cost of these services for any reason, including availability or cost of fuel, regulations affecting the industry, labor shortages in the transportation industry, service failures by third-party service providers, or natural disasters (which may impact the transportation infrastructure or demand for transportation services), could have an adverse effect on the Company's ability to serve its customers, and could have a material adverse effect on financial performance.

The results of the Company may be adversely impacted by growth in alternative energy markets.

The Company competes for certain raw materials, notably corn and soy-based agricultural products, with the emerging bio-fuels industry. Growth in the bio-fuels industry, which is typically linked to increases in gasoline and diesel prices, may limit the supply of certain raw materials available to the Company. Additionally, farm acreage currently devoted to other agricultural products utilized by the Company may be converted to corn or soy resulting in higher cost for other agricultural products utilized by the Company.

The Company may be unable to maintain or improve its profit margins in the face of a consolidating retail environment. In addition, the loss of the Company's largest customer could negatively impact its sales and profits.

Sales to Wal-Mart Stores, Inc. and its subsidiaries amounted to approximately 24 percent of the Company's net sales in 2009. These sales are primarily included in the three U.S. retail market segments. Trade receivables at April 30, 2009, included amounts due from Wal-Mart Stores, Inc. and its subsidiaries of approximately $73.2 million. During 2009, the Company's top 10 customers, collectively, accounted for approximately 61 percent of consolidated net sales. The Company expects that a significant portion of its revenues will continue to be derived from a small number of customers. The Company's customers are generally not contractually obligated to purchase from the Company. These customers make purchase decisions based on a combination of price, product quality, consumer demand, customer service performance, their desired inventory levels, and other factors. Changes in customers' strategies, including a reduction in the number of brands they carry or a shift of shelf space to private label products may adversely affect sales. Additionally, the Company's customers may face financial or other difficulties that may impact their operations and their purchases from the Company, which could adversely affect results of operations. Customers also may respond to price increases by reducing distribution, resulting in reduced sales of the Company's products. If sales of products to one or more of these customers are reduced, this reduction may have a material adverse effect on the Company's business, financial condition, and results of operations. Bankruptcy or other business disruption of a significant customer could adversely affect the Company's results of operations.

The Company uses a single national broker to represent a significant portion of the Company's branded products to the retail grocery trade and any failure by the broker to effectively represent the Company would adversely affect the Company's business.

The Company uses a single national broker to represent a significant portion of branded products to the retail grocery trade. The Company's business would suffer substantial disruption if this broker were to default in the performance of its obligations to perform brokerage services or if this broker fails to effectively represent the Company to the retail grocery trade.

Changes in tax, environmental, or other regulations and laws or failure to comply with existing licensing, trade, and other regulations and laws could have a material adverse effect on the Company's consolidated financial condition.

The Company's operations are subject to regulation by the U.S. Departments of Agriculture, Commerce, and Labor, the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, the U.S. Federal Trade Commission, as well as similar and other authorities of Canada, various state, provincial and local governments, and voluntary regulatory and trade associations.

The manufacturing, marketing, and distribution of food products are each subject to governmental regulation that is increasingly extensive, encompassing such matters as ingredients, advertising, relations with distributors and retailers, health, safety, and the environment.

Additionally, the Company is routinely subject to new or modified tax and securities regulations, other laws and regulation, and accounting and reporting standards. The Company's failure or inability to comply with these requirements could subject the Company to civil remedies, including fines, injunctions, recalls or seizures, as well as potential criminal sanctions.

The results of the Company may be adversely impacted as a result of changes in defined benefit pension and other postretirement plan factors or regulations.

The Company has defined benefit pension plans covering certain of its U.S. and Canadian employees. In addition to the defined benefit pension plans, the Company sponsors several unfunded, defined postretirement plans. The Company's obligations and expense associated with these plans are recorded in the Company's financial statements based on assumptions related to inflation, investment returns, mortality, employee turnover, rate of compensation increases, medical costs, and discount rates. Changes in any of these assumptions, as well as changes in regulations governing these plans, can cause volatility in recorded assets, liabilities, expenses, and future funding requirements.

Volatility in the equity markets or interest rates could substantially increase the Company's pension costs and required pension contributions.

The Company sponsors qualified defined benefit pension plans and various other nonqualified postretirement plans. The qualified defined benefit pension plans are funded with trust assets invested in a diversified portfolio of debt and equity securities and other investments. Among other factors, changes in interest rates, investment returns and the market value of plan assets can (i) affect the level of plan funding; (ii) cause volatility in the net periodic pension cost; and (iii) increase the Company's future contribution requirements. A significant decrease in investment returns or the market value of plan assets or a significant decrease in interest rates could increase the Company's net periodic pension costs and adversely affect its results of operations. A significant increase in the Company's contribution requirements with respect to qualified defined benefit pension plans could have an adverse impact on its cash flow.

The Company's operations are subject to the general risks associated with acquisitions.

The Company's stated long-term strategy is to own and market leading North American food brands sold in the center of the store. The Company has historically made strategic acquisitions of brands and businesses and intends to do so in the future in support of this strategy. The success of past and future acquisitions is dependent on the Company's ability to successfully integrate acquired and existing operations. If the Company is unable to integrate acquisitions successfully, its financial results could suffer. Additional potential risks associated with acquisitions are the diversion of management's attention from other business concerns, additional debt leverage, the loss of key employees and customers of the acquired business, the assumption of unknown liabilities, disputes with sellers, and the inherent risk associated with the Company entering a line of business in which it has no prior experience.

The anticipated benefits from the Folgers transaction may not be realized.

The Company may not realize the full benefits of the increased sales volume and other benefits that are currently expected to result from the Folgers transaction, or realize these benefits within the time frame that is currently expected. For example, the elimination of duplicative costs may not be possible or may take longer than anticipated. In addition, the benefits of the Folgers transaction may be offset by operating losses relating to changes in commodity or energy prices, increased competition, or by other risks and uncertainties. If the Company fails to realize the benefits it anticipates from the Folgers transaction, the Company's results of operations may be adversely affected.

Disruptions in the financial markets may adversely affect the Company's ability to access capital in the future.

The Company may need new or additional financing in the future to conduct its operations, expand its business or refinance existing indebtedness. Recent disruptions in global financial markets and banking systems have made credit and capital markets more difficult for companies to access, even for some companies with established revolving or other credit facilities. Any sustained weakness in the general economic conditions and/or financial markets in the United States or globally could affect adversely the Company's ability to raise capital on favorable terms or at all. From time to time the Company has relied, and also may rely in the future, on access to financial markets as a source of liquidity for working capital requirements, acquisitions and general corporate purposes. The Company's access to funds under its revolving credit facilities is dependent on the ability of the financial institutions that are parties to those facilities to meet their funding commitments. The obligations of the financial institutions under the Company's revolving credit facilities are several and not joint and, as a result, a funding default by one or more institutions does not need to be made up by the others.

Longer term volatility and continued disruptions in the capital and credit markets as a result of uncertainty, changing or increased regulation of financial institutions, reduced alternatives or failure of significant financial institutions could affect adversely the Company's access to the liquidity needed for its businesses in the longer term. Such disruptions could require the Company to take measures to conserve cash until the markets stabilize or until alternative credit arrangements or other funding for its business needs can be arranged. The disruptions in the capital and credit markets also have resulted in higher interest rates on publicly issued debt securities and increased costs under credit facilities. Continuation of these disruptions would increase the Company's interest expense and capital costs and could affect adversely its results of operations and financial position.

Item 3. Legal Proceedings.

The Company is a defendant in a variety of legal proceedings. Plaintiffs in a few of those cases seek substantial damages. The Company cannot predict with certainty the results of these proceedings. However, the Company believes that the final outcome of these proceedings will not materially affect the Company's financial results.
